

Healing with Scientific Certainty through the Christ

Explore the Connection between Prayer and Health

Respected institutions such as Harvard and the University of Washington actively promote the importance of spirituality and medicine. Healthcare providers often recommend that patients with an incurable diagnosis, “get in touch” with their “higher power”. Prayer can cure the incurable!

Unlock the Power of Prayer

- Looking for an alternative to the negative side effects of drugs and to expensive, intrusive medical treatments?
- Discover how an understanding of God as infinite good and ever-present Love brings healing.
- Find out how this scientific system of prayer-based healing can be used by anyone for consistent and reliable health.

Christine Driessen was an attorney specializing in criminal, juvenile, and domestic litigation and founded a rehabilitation program for women prisoners. She is now a full-time practitioner, teacher, and international lecturer of Christian Science and is based in New York City. Her recent events:
